

I have been using Ancestry.com to aid me in developing my family tree.

Interestingly I was able to trace my roots State's side all the way to my 9th great grand mother to Anne Dudley Bradstreet who arrived in the Plymouth Colonies in about 1630. She was famous for having written many poems from a female perspective of the hardships of being a founding mother to our country.

I've found many relatives who were engage in the Revolution and the Civil War, often with brothers fighting on both sides. Another interesting fellow was in Louiana through 4 different flags French colony to Spanish back to French and finally to American.

The image shows a screenshot of an Ancestry.com family tree. On the right side, a profile for 'Sam Richard Alcee Juge' is visible, with the text 'Born May 7, 1936'. A black arrow points from this profile to a specific node in the tree. Below the tree, a Wikipedia snippet for 'Anne Bradstreet' is displayed, with another black arrow pointing from the tree node to the snippet. The Wikipedia snippet includes the URL 'https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Anne_Bradstreet' and a partial description: 'Anne Bradstreet (March 20, 1612 – September 16, 1672), née Dudley, was the most prominent of early English poets of North America and first writer in England's North American colonies to be ...'. The family tree itself shows several generations of names, with the path from the modern ancestor to Anne Bradstreet highlighted.

Sam Richard Alcee Juge
Born May 7, 1936

Anne Bradstreet - Wikipedia
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Anne_Bradstreet
Anne Bradstreet (March 20, 1612 – September 16, 1672), née Dudley, was the most prominent of early English poets of North America and first writer in England's North American colonies to be ...